Adam S. Dicce is an associate in Saxton & Stump's Healthcare Litigation and Business Litigation and Strategic Solutions groups, based in the firm's Harrisburg office. Adam assists the firm in defending hospitals, healthcare systems, physicians, and others in medical professional liability cases. Before joining Saxton & Stump, Adam was an associate at a central Pennsylvania law firm, where his practice concentrated on litigation and municipal law.

Adam earned his law degree from Penn State Dickinson Law, where he was inducted into the Woolsack Honor Society, which recognizes the top 15% of each graduating class. During law school, he served as a judicial intern for the Hon. Susan E. Schwab, U.S. magistrate judge for the Middle District of Pennsylvania, and gained additional experience as an intern at the Cumberland County District Attorney's Office Appellate Division and as a law clerk at the Pennsylvania Governor's Office of General Counsel for the Department of Corrections.

He received his bachelor's degree, cum laude, from New York University.
