Education

Monroe Community College, A.A.S. in nursing

Kelly Gibbs is a paralegal in Saxton & Stump's Healthcare Litigation Group, based in the firm's York office. She plays a key role in supporting attorneys as they defend healthcare systems, hospitals, and medical professionals in complex litigation in both state and federal courts. A former registered nurse who maintains her license in Pennsylvania and New York, Kelly brings hands-on clinical experience and a valuable understanding of the healthcare environment. Her background enhances the firm's ability to navigate the medical and legal details at the heart of healthcare litigation.

Kelly is skilled in electronic filing and docketing, coordinating case activity, drafting legal documents, and preparing materials for depositions, hearings, arbitrations, and trials.

Kelly received her paralegal certification from Penn State, and her registered nursing degree from Monroe Community College in Rochester, N.Y.
