Emina Henne focuses her practice on representing hospitals, physicians, and other healthcare providers in professional liability matters, including the defense of medical malpractice claims. She brings more than a decade of experience in professional liability litigation and over 20 years of experience in the healthcare industry, including in risk management, operations, and regulatory compliance.

Before beginning her legal career, Henne worked as a critical care nurse in the cardiac surgical intensive care unit, cardiac care unit, and emergency department. She later served as a risk management professional and nursing administrator at a major university teaching hospital in Philadelphia. Her extensive clinical background across hospitals, physician groups, and long-term care facilities allows her to provide valuable insight and practical solutions to help clients achieve their patient safety and risk management objectives.
