

Family Law

The Family Law Group at Saxton & Stump understands that every family situation is different, which means that each divorce, custody arrangement or child support action will be different. Family law is a distinctive practice, requiring a certain level of emotional support in addition to zealous advocacy. Family matters are very personal and can be sensitive. Our experienced family law team will create an individualized strategy that caters to each family's individual personal needs in some of their most difficult hours. Some cases can be resolved through effective negotiation and fair settlement. Others include complex legal matters, substantial net-worth marital estates, or high-conflict custody issues. Saxton & Stump has the knowledge, experience and skills to handle them all.

We also routinely enlist the assistance of other professionals such as therapists, coparenting experts, forensic accountants, psychological evaluators, business valuers, IT experts and more to ensure every single need is met with the highest level of understanding available.

Our approach at Saxton & Stump is different and we take pride in providing each client with the expertise needed to deliver the best possible strategy and outcome for their unique situation.
